

JUAREZ IS OCCUPIED BY VASQUISTAS ARMY

REBELS ABSORBE CONTROL OF CITY ON MEXICAN BORDER WITHOUT FIGHT THIS MORNING.

GAVE NO RESISTANCE

Mayor of City Ordered Troops Not to Fire to Prevent Trouble With United States—American Troops Ready.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] El Paso, Texas, Feb. 27.—Juarez today is in possession of the Vasquistas army. Firing but once or two volleys and meeting no resistance except a few scattering shots in reply to their first volley, the rebels marched to the town. They captured the machine guns that had been bought to repel the rebels, took charge of the municipal offices, the customs house, the barracks, the jail and other public buildings.

United States troops patrolled the border at the time the attack was made apparently ready to enter Juarez if El Paso should be endangered. As the rebels marched into Juarez they found all houses closed but no resistance. Only one man, Captain Gomez, of the defenders was wounded accidentally.

Rebels Begin Move. At nine o'clock the rebel army resumed their movement toward Juarez. No shots had been fired up to that time. Simultaneously with the movement of troops from the northwest men were seen coming from the southeast also towards the city seemingly closing in on two sides.

At nine o'clock Mayor Enriquez of Juarez decided to discuss any preparations for defense but his guards were still on duty.

Asks for Surrender. Shortly after nine o'clock Homer Scott, a photographer reached Juarez from the rebel camp with a letter from the rebels for the mayor of the town demanding its surrender by 12 o'clock and offering not to fire until he received it.

Meantime, the rebel troops rested close in on Juarez. Cavalry was stationed on the northwest and west and dismounted men on the north. The dismounted men used the river banks for protection.

Firing is Opened. Not a shot had been fired on either side at 9:30 a. m. At 10 o'clock a part of the rebel force had entered the outskirts of Juarez.

The defenders replied to the fire of the invaders. The entrance is being made along an irrigation ditch leading into Juarez almost parallel with the Rio Grande. The rebels started bombarding Juarez at 10:05 a. m. The fire is from a northwesterly direction parallel to 121 Paso.

Give no Resistance. Mexican counsel Lorenzo in El Paso declared shortly after 10 o'clock that to prevent American rights being interfered with the Juarez garrison had been ordered to offer no resistance and that the rebels would be permitted to take the town.

At 10:12 only the shots from the rebel guns were heard. Apparently after firing the first volley in answer to the attack the defenders of the town ceased firing.

After the defender had fired a few volleys the officers ordered them to cease. The police also were ordered not to fire. This apparently confirms the statement from Counsel Lorenzo that resistance is not being made.

Rebels in Control. The investment of Juarez by the rebels appears complete. All stores and doors to business houses are barred and the rebels are marching through the streets orderly not firing nor being fired at.

The United States troops now in El Paso include the entire 22nd infantry and one battery of field artillery which arrived during the night, four companies of the 18th infantry, and four troops of the 4th cavalry. Col. E. Z. Hoover, commanding the 4th cavalry regiment is in command of the American patrol. The soldiers are stationed in the downtown district except the artillery which detained this morning at 7 o'clock at Fort Bliss five miles out from town.

Looks For Peace. Washington, Feb. 27.—Mexican Ambassador Martin today expressed the opinion that the present "disturbance" in Mexico would not lead to a "real" revolution because the majority of the people and public opinion was against it. He said "the various local disturbances would be put down in two or three months at the longest."

"The people of Mexico," he added, "have had enough of revolution and the majority of them are in favor of peace so that they may go ahead undisturbed with their business."

TAXICAB ROBBERY CHARGED THREE MEN

New York Police Secure Three Men Who Are Charged With Robbing Bank Messengers in Taxi.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 27.—The police trap set in this and other cities to capture the members of the motor highway men who robbed two messengers of the First National Bank as they went to the bank in the taxicab and robbed them of $25,000 in bills, resulted in three men taking the stand today. They are charged by the police to be the men who took part in the robbery. They are Edward Kinsman, Elliot Edgy Collins, and John Alverduz, a truck man, and Gene Montano, chauffeur of the robbed taxi.

Alverduz went to the Bowery bank and hired a safe-deposit box two days after the robbery. Some of the loot was found in Kinsman's home in Boston where the money was enclosed in the original bank wrappers.

A woman's love of flattery which played the jealousy of a compulsion led to the discovery of the highwaymen. Anna Hall better known as "Sweet Annie" recently came from Albany wearing a new and expensive hat and it was in this way that the mystery was disclosed. A companion of hers told the chambermaid that "Sweet Annie" had recently gone away in a taxicab to Albany and with this clue the police were able to unravel the mystery.

New York, Feb. 27.—It was reported this afternoon at police headquarters that Kinsman and Alverduz had confessed and that Kinsman had taken detectives over the ground covered on the day of the robbery. Two thousand dollars of the stolen money were recovered this afternoon in the safe-deposit vault the lock box of which the money was found had been rented under the name of Joseph Push, proprietor of the saloon in which the highwaymen hid the money.

New York, Feb. 27.—Police Inspector Hughes announced shortly before 12 that a false arrest had been made in the taxicab robbery. He declined to give the name of the man arrested and said further he would not be arraigned today.

Kenosha is Warned BY BOARD OF HEALTH

Ultimatum Served on Mayor of Lake City to Secure Enforcement of Health Laws.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 27.—The state board of health has served an ultimatum upon the mayor of Kenosha to enforce a stricter enforcement of the health laws, failing in which the board will send a special officer to Kenosha to take charge of the situation at the city's expense. Scarlet fever and diphtheria are prevalent. Dr. C. A. Harp, secretary of the state board, has advised that the local board was making little if any attempt to control the epidemic and that the mayor was giving much less attention to the case than its importance deserved.

Dr. Harp's letter to the mayor is said to be a classic.

WILL PREVENT SPREAD OF SMALLPOX IN WOOD COUNTY.

State Board of Health Will Hold Meeting at Grand Rapids Next Saturday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 27.—The spread of smallpox in many parts of Wood county has prompted the state board of health to call a meeting at Grand Rapids next Saturday of all the health officers in the county, together with the physicians, particularly from the infected districts, to devise ways and means of controlling the disease. Dr. L. E. Spencer of Waupun, will represent the state board, which desires to take measures to permit the schools to continue. General vaccination will be recommended. The disease is prevalent in eleven towns, villages and cities in Wood county. Authorities of the city of Grand Rapids are completing over their inability to combat the disease when quarantine rules are not enforced in the country districts.

MAY ABOLISH CAP AND GOWN AT WISCONSIN COMMENCEMENT

Seniors of University Will Decide at Coming Election Whether They Retain Custom.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 27.—Whether University of Wisconsin seniors shall wear the cap and gown at the June commencement is a question to be decided at a special election on March 8, when the seniors of each college in the university will determine for themselves their own course. Heretofore about one-half of the class have adopted the mortar board and other classic regalia. The net effect has been unsatisfactory.

Class elections this semester will be held on the same day—also March 8. In the past each class has held its election on a different day. The new election was made by the student conference. Student candidates have been selected to the use of a photograph and sketch in the class campaign pamphlet the use of money otherwise being prohibited by a new ruling.

WISCONSIN FIREMEN VISIT MINNEAPOLIS

Chairman of Assembly Investigating Committee and Commissioner Consult With Walter Eckern.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 27.—J. J. Mortenson, assembly chairman of the Wisconsin legislative fire insurance investigating committee, and insurance Commissioner H. L. Ekern spent Saturday at Minneapolis in consultation with Walter L. Fisher, manager of the General Inspection company of Minneapolis, who makes the fire insurance rates for the state of Minnesota and South Dakota. Knowing that his department is well equipped for this purpose, the Wisconsin men visited it preparatory to beginning this morning relative to the question of rate-making and rate-making agencies.

Commissioner Ekern quotes a part of the statement issued by Mr. Fisher in connection with his estimates, believing it is of especial interest to the Wisconsin public with respect to the present investigation and the agitation now on for fire prevention. He says:

"The insuring public often pays for defects and conditions of risks that in many cases can be easily remedied, and they also fail to appreciate the value of fire walls, fire doors, and numerous other items that affect the cost of insurance."

ATTACKS PREVALENT TEACHING METHODS

President of Denver Board of Education in Speech at St. Louis Convention Hits Present System.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 27.—"The most insidious educational idea that has hit national educational circles and has spread from the college to the grade, is the idea that teachers with forty children can call on a pupil, have him recite, grade him, mark him, keep this up for ten months, then present an array of questions to be answered in like manner and by the final answer of these questions determine the child's knowledge of that subject."

So said Daniel E. Phillips, president of the Denver Board of Education this morning in addressing the departments of superintendents of the national educational association on "The trial, versus promotion machinery."

Continuing Mr. Phillips said principals and teachers may "Such a thing is a necessary evil," and concluded "I don't just maintain that, each child should at all times, be at work in the grade and in the subject he can get the best out of without reference to what he knows or does not know, and without regard to how much more or less he knows than the pupils behind or above him."

GIVE MORE DETAILS OF TILDEN EFFORTS

Moses H. Joseph, Testifying in Suit Against Packers, Tells of Attempts to Buy Stock.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Feb. 27.—Additional details of the efforts made by Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, one of the defendants, to buy stock in the Schwartzchild and Sulzberger company and the New York Butcher Pressed Beef company were given by Moses H. Joseph, secretary and treasurer of the latter company, at the packers' trial today. He said that after several years of effort the witness and his father, Frederick Joseph, only succeeded in purchasing about 10,000 of the 50,000 shares in the Schwartzchild and Sulzberger company and resigned from the "S. and S." company.

EXAMINED ACTIONS OF CITY OFFICIALS IN LABOR TROUBLES

Federal Government to Investigate Detention of Strikers' Children—Little Disturbance Today at Mills.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Boston, Feb. 27.—The federal government is to investigate the action of the municipal authorities at Lawrence in preventing the exportation of strikers' children from the city. United States District Attorney French announced today that Attorney General Wickersham has ordered him to determine whether the municipal authorities of Lawrence had violated the interstate commerce act by preventing the railroad from carrying out its contract with those who had arranged to send their children out of the state.

Little Disturbance. Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 27.—There was little disturbance during the hours preceding the opening of the textile mills today. Six arrests were made of strikers' pickets, of whom there were fewer than usual because of a heavy fall of snow and rain. Five of those arrested were women whom the police say had carried persuasion to a point approaching violence.

The one man arrested is charged with throwing pepper into the eyes of an officer and with carrying a dangerous weapon. Indications this morning were that the mills had made further gains in the number of operatives at work. It is estimated there are now a total of 18,000 operatives at work with 12,000 still on strike.

Keep Children Home. The plan to export children to Philadelphia has been abandoned. It is understood, and aside from the children who are to be sent with a committee of strikers to Washington tomorrow, there may be no little ones sent away from their homes in groups.

President Sen Gives Dutch One Week to Pay Indemnity or Batavia Will Be Fired Upon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] San Francisco, Feb. 27.—Chinese warships have been ordered to Java under instructions to begin a bombardment of Batavia if the Dutch government does not pay an indemnity demanded for the killing of Chinese soldiers. In an ultimatum sent to the Dutch government yesterday provisional President Sun Yat Sen stated that an attack on Java would be begun if the indemnity were not paid within a week. This information was received here today in a dispatch from Dr. Sun's private secretary to Tong Chong, editor of the Chinese Free Press.

OPERATORS OPPOSE DEMAND FOR RAISE

Anthracite Coal Operators Believe that Twenty Per Cent Raise in Wages Would Bring Price of Coal Too High.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 27.—Several anthracite coal operators it is learned will oppose vigorously the granting of the chief demands of the miners. Where the twenty per cent increase wanted by the operators is, it would be necessary to advance the price to the consumer an alternative that is regarded as out of the question. There will be no recognition of union they declared. The establishment of a shorter working day may be settled by compromise.

CERLIN HAS ELECTED A MAYOR WHO HAS UNLIMITED POWER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, Feb. 27.—Dr. Karl Steinhilger, city chamberlain of Berlin, today was elected mayor of Greater Berlin.

Dr. Steinhilger's election as first mayor of Greater Berlin places him at the head of the third greatest municipality in the world, the only cities exceeding it in size being London and New York. The population of the city's area is nearly 3,500,000. Under the new form of government the city council will have control over matters of transportation, building plans and the acquisition of suburban lands for the purpose of forming a forest and meadow girdle to the city.

JUDGES SHOULD STAND LIKE A ROCK AGAINST CRY FOR BLOOD

HON. STEPHEN S. GREGORY OF CHICAGO MAKES TELLING TALK AT BAR BANQUET.

IS NOTABLE ADDRESS

Also Touches Upon the Present Question of the Recall of the Judiciary Raised by the Scheming Politicians.

Members of the Rock County Bar Association, and their invited guests, on Monday evening enjoyed a banquet and heard one of the most able addresses that has been given in Janesville for many years, by Stephen S. Gregory, Chicago, president of the American Bar Association. The annual banquet followed the regular meeting of the county association which is always held on the day of the opening of the February term of the circuit court. At the meeting, memorials were read on this meeting of the association who have passed to the world beyond during the past year. Hon. Ogden H. Pathé, William Smith and J. J. Wickham of Holst.

The banquet was held at the Myers Hotel at seven thirty the guests of the evening being seated at a long table across the north end of the hotel, which was most tastefully decorated with ferns, carnations and flowers with potted plants. The members of the bar were seated at small tables about the room and the following delicious repast was served:

Blue Points
Cream of Tomato
Wafers
Green Peas
Marbled Potatoes
Young Turkey
Cranberry Sauce
Combination Salad
Cheese Wafers
Apple Pie, a la mode
Coffee, Bent
Black Coffee
Mints
Clears

Hon. George C. Sutherland acted as toastmaster of the evening, and in a few well-chosen words introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Stephen S. Gregory, of Chicago, president of the American Bar Association. Mr. Gregory and Mr. Sutherland were at the university together, and his introduction was along the lines of old-time friendship. Mr. Gregory had for his subject, "Insanity as a Defense in Criminal Cases."

The president of the American Bar Association, Mr. Gregory, said in part:

"A brilliant, eloquent, advocate at the bar of my city, and before the bar association, recently urged with much plausibility that all criminals should be treated as diseased or defective and sent to hospitals rather than to penitentiaries, for punishment but for cure. I am not certain that he was right; yet, some very such views seem more prominent with the newer justice than the old Mosaic formula, 'an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.' Society's Slow Progress."

"In the long history of human society the knout, the wheel, the stake, the axe, the guillotine and the rope, as well as the dungeon and the prison, have invoked in vain to banish crime from the earth."

"Chief Justice, Worcester, in a recent paper, has well said: 'For centuries the world has been struggling with the theory that the way to deal with crime was to impose severe punishment upon the offender. Long since it has been proved that in prisons where only hardship and cruelty were to be expected, and considered the proper punishment. Terror was to be the force that was to hold crime in check. It has taken the world many centuries to make at last a beginning in experimenting upon some theory of vengeance.'"

"However this may be, I think it certainly must be conceded that if the direct result of disease a man does that which would be otherwise criminal, he neither merits punishment nor is it probable that it visited upon him it will deter others similarly affected from like conduct."

"Assuming, the purpose of legislation and of courts in dealing with the criminal responsibility of the man is to accomplish this result. If this effort has not altogether succeeded in this effort, I think, fairly obvious to those familiar with the administration of the criminal law."

Mr. Gregory considered insanity a brain disease.

"Another curious thing is that the manner in which a personal peculiarity is regarded is very different where it is attributed to mental causes rather than physical. We do not blame a man for being lame, but we do for being stupid. Yet the latter infirmity may be just as truly due to illness as the former."

"How, then, does brain disease affect the criminal responsibility of the victim? The courts, and on this legislation, as far as it has gone, has generally followed, the courts have developed, the idea that as every trivial, or as they seem to prefer to call it, partial insanity, does not excuse crime, some test, as a matter of law, right and uniform in all cases, must be prescribed to determine such exemption."

"That which prevails in England, and generally in this country, is whether the accused at the time of the act otherwise criminal had sufficient intelligence to know that it was wrong."

He then took up the history of the case of Queen, assassin of President Garfield and tried in details upon the trial and manner in which the assassin was tried and convicted. The case of Patrick Eugene Hendon, assassin of Mayor Carter H. Harrison of Chicago, in 1893 was then taken up. Mr. Gregory having acted as counsel in the case. The insanity of the prisoner was agreed to by all the attorneys interested, yet his conviction and execution were accomplished.

"TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY, Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets, Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25 CENTS. GENUINE signature on each box."

published, Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was the last of the three illustrations, used and this was so similar to the others that it was not dealt with as minutely. However, Czolgosz paid the death penalty.

"The three 'cases,' he said, 'to which I have especially referred are essentially alike.'"

"In each the victim was a person of distinction and in official position; the slayer a poor, wretched creature that the world was better without."

"A Falcon towering in her pride of place was by a mousing owl, hawked and killed."

"The each homicide the slayer was pitiless and friendly, utterly unable to take any intelligent action in his own defense, or to pay for professional assistance of any character."

"In each case the defendant was held to the highest degree of responsibility, and the extreme penalty of the law reserved theoretically for the most irreducible crimes, committed absolutely without extenuation, was absolutely upon him."

"From a medical standpoint their cases were similar. In each case it appeared, as if there was a sudden fulminating or explosive action in the diseased brain resulting in the homicide, which was directly due to some appeal made to the inmate by great publicity, given to the activities of the distinguished victim at or about the time of the homicide."

Mr. Gregory then offered the following recommendations for legislative enactments to remedy this evil.

"As to changes in our law suggested by the conclusions at which I have arrived, regarding insanity as a defense, I would recommend: 'First: That if the courts will not do so, the legislature should prescribe as the test of guilt where insanity is the defense, the question whether the act charged as criminal was directly due to the insanity, or brain disease of the defendant.'"

"Second: That in all jurisdictions where capital punishment is authorized no person charged with murder who defends on the ground of insanity shall be put upon a jury until the expiration of one year after the judgment or information is returned. The testimony of at least one physician skilled in brain disease, might be required to establish that there was no doubt as to the defendant's sanity as to warrant the belief that the defense was interposed in good faith."

"Third: I am inclined to think that where in homicide cases a defendant is acquitted upon the ground of insanity, he should be committed to a state institution for the insane."

STATES FACTS AS TO WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

James Clough Answers Arguments of the City Attorney As To What He Has Accomplished.

In the following communication published below from James Clough will be found an answer to the claims made by City Attorney Maxfield as to what he has accomplished for the city as regards the Water Company. Mr. Clough speaks by card and shows up the fallacy that the city gained anything in the case and in reality lost.

Mr. H. L. Maxfield tells us all the great things he has done for the city of Janesville, but he does not tell all he has done when he tells us about the decision of the Railroad Commission, he don't tell all of it. The city of Janesville had the best terms with the Janesville Water Co., than any city in the state had with a Water Co., the city paid $25.00 a year for the city hall and for the public schools, and the public library, printing and all other fundaments, and water for flushing the sewers, what does the city of Janesville get by the decision of the Railroad Commission, who the city will pay $75.00 rental for hydro-rails, and will have to pay for the water used in city hall, the schools and library and all the fundaments; and all the water used for flushing sewers, does Mr. Maxfield say anything about that part of the decision of the Railroad Commission, he sees many ways out of it, he concluded the city must buy the water works, but there is an obstacle in the way. What is it? The unassessed valuation. Low is the law won't allow only so much per cent of the unassessed valuation. That was easy for Mr. Maxfield. He had been to Madison, the home of commissions and there is what is known as tax commission, so Mr. Maxfield filed a complaint with the Tax Commission and they came to Janesville and took into the matter and they decided Janesville needed reassessing, so they sent their experts here and did they raise the assessment? I guess they did a little over $5,000,000, now the city can be bonded for the Water Works, and then some more. I think if the Tax Payers look into the matter they will find there will be about $15,000 more taxes to pay, than there would have been had Mr. Maxfield stayed in Janesville and attended to the business he was elected for. While Mr. Maxfield was filing complaint with the Commission at Madison, the commission wanted ordinances revised. Did Mr. Maxfield do it? No. That's all right the taxes will be lower. At the meeting Feb. 19, 1912, an order was introduced authorizing the city clerk to hire an assistant to help copy the tax rolls which were made by the recent assessors. Now will these things make the taxes lower? I think not, all these additional expenses, the Tax Payer must pay, for I don't think Mr. Maxfield will.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT BOXING TOURNAMENT

Clever Work By the Sparrers Delight Fans Who Enjoyed the Four Contests.

Before a large audience last evening at the West Side rink the Janesville Athletic Club held one of the best boxing tournaments that has been held in Janesville for many years. While referee Beckersall stopped two of the contests in the initial round owing to the inability of the less skillful boxers to get away from the clever little Chicago chap, the other two matches were well worth watching.

In the wind-up, Ruby Hirsch of Chicago had for the best of the mulling over his opponent Kid Jura, a Windy City Greek. Jura, who did not like the repeated hitting of his opponent and frequently eluded to rest himself. However, in the eighth round he woke up and gave as good as he received.

Kid De Munn, the Belvidere aspirant for squared circle honors went after his husky opponent with lots of ring victories behind him. In the fifth round of his contest with Kallor Burke and put him down for the count, securing a clean victory. Previous to that Burke had a bit the best of the mulling and looked like a winner.

The popular idol of the fans however, was Julius Stein, a little Chicago product who stepped into the ring as a substitute for Battling Horitz in his go with Kid McDuff, a local boxer. Stein walked through from the start and downed McDuff twice in the first round when Beckersall stopped the bout owing to the local youth's lack of knowledge of the game.

Stein was not content with this victory but when Kid Lawrence of Beloit sent word he was known and could not meet Kid Perry of Belvidere, volunteered his services and trimmed the Illinois youth in his step time when Beckersall again stepped in.

It might be said that both McDuff and Perry wanted to continue but it was best to have stopped the boxing when it was while the crowd objected somewhat they agreed with Beckersall when he explained matters.

Had it not been for the storm the crowd would have been larger, as two car loads of Beloit and Belvidere fans were unable to reach the city at all owing to the snow drifts.

CUBS LEAVE TIGERS BEHIND LAST NIGHT

Merrick High Man With 121 in Match Last Evening—Naps and Sox Next.

Two games were won by the Cubs last night at Hockford in a series when they met the Tigers in a boxing match. The Cubs started in with a rush and took the first game by a margin of 150. Merrick bowling the high score of the evening 191 during this game. In the second game however, the Tigers were in better form and succeeding in winning the game with 92 points to spare, but they were unable to keep the pace and let the Cubs take the third game with over a hundred extra points. Tuesday, February 27 is the date for the match between the Naps and Sox. Last evening's scores were:

Cubs.
Kneek	144	117

"B" JUNIORS TO PLAY MILTON HIGH SCHOOL

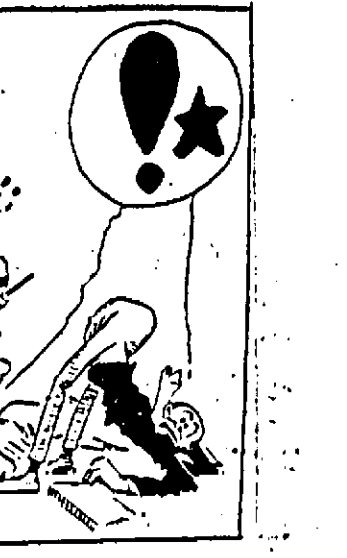

Plans for Big Circus Under Way—Mammoth Production to Be Put on by Y. M. C. A. Members.

Tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. the local "B" Juniors will play a team from the Milton high school. The Y. M. C. A. Juniors have played and defeated the Evansville Juniors at different times and expect to give the Milton lads a dose of the same medicine. The game will be played in the auditorium and those who witness it will surely be given a treat in the way of basketball.

Y. M. C. A. Planning Circus. Physical Director Hartwell has been working on the plans for a circus which will be held some time within the next few weeks to be given by the members of the gymnasium classes. All of the different classes will take part in the performance and the plans promise to be a great success. Work will begin in the classes at once and the Juniors especially are requested to be present at the gymnasium on class days.

Fights Scheduled for Tonight. Packer McFarland vs. Tommy McInnes, 10 rounds, at New York. Johnny Sinclair vs. Patey Brannigan, 12 rounds, at Cleveland. Larry Ryan vs. Charley Kennedy, 8 rounds, at Chattanooga. Clarence English vs. "Wildcat" Forns, 16 rounds, at St. Joe, Mo.

Six Sons in the Ministry. An unusual family record is that of the six sons of the Rev. David Fugh, rector of Yacellion, Wales, who has just died. Four of his sons are clergymen in the Church of England, while two are at Oxford intending to take holy orders in due time.

LUTHERANS FAILED TO VOTE FOR UNION

Members of Orfordville Church Interested in Action Taken at Madison Conference.

Orfordville, Feb. 27.—The people of this community were deeply interested in the meeting of a committee composed of members chosen from the United Norwegian Lutheran church and the Norwegian Synod church, elected for the purpose of consulting these two church bodies that have been separated for over thirty years. This committee on union closed its eight days' session at Madison Thursday Feb. 22. The official report of the meeting will not be made public for several months, but it is reported that they agreed on the question of election at least, so far that they could declare that the difference was not necessarily church dividing (Kirkeadskillelse). It is also reported that the committee did not recommend the consolidation of the respective church bodies they represented.

This failure on this most important part is very much regretted by those who, in real earnest, are in favor of a reunion. It puts the main question into the uncertain future.

The question of slavery that roused the Luther Valley and the question of justification that drove the Rev. Herzh of one of the Synod, has not been discussed.

M. E. Church Paper. Plans have been made for starting a Methodist church paper at Orfordville. It is to be issued monthly and consist of eight pages and cover.

The Rev. William C. Salisbury, pastor, and Mrs. Salisbury will edit the paper. It will be a means of touching a larger public, and also of keeping the friends who have moved to other localities in touch with the work at Orfordville. It will be devoted to church news only, hence it will not be in competition with any other paper. The cover pages will be used for local advertising. It will be issued as soon as the balance of the advertising space is taken and one hundred subscriptions secured so as to insure its financial success.

Had Leg Broken. Ernest Silverthorn and Harry Langdon of Pontville attended the dance at Newark last Friday evening, driving one of A. M. Cains livery teams. While standing in the shed one of the horses had its leg broken by being kicked by a strange horse standing beside it, with no partition between them. The horse had to be killed. This is a heavy loss for all concerned.

Local News. Levi K. Lauer will have a sale on the farm south of town Friday, March 1st.

Nellie Hendrickson and Esther Hanson spent Saturday and Sunday at their respective homes.

At the M. E. church the Rev. Salisbury preached a very impressive sermon Sunday morning from the text, "Simon, I have Somewhat to Say unto Thee." His dramatic portrayal of the anointing of Jesus' feet by the sinful woman, made very clear the lessons drawn from the three chief actors in the drama—the critic, the criticized, and the Christ.

The evening sermon on "The Covenant" was a masterly discussion of sin, its personality, its duplicity and its responsibility, from the text, "Thou Art The Man."

Rev. Leonard of Chicago, secretary of the United Norwegian Lutheran church, will give an address illustrated with stereopticon views on "The Institutions and Missions of the United Church" in the East Lutheran Valley church next Sunday evening. Everybody cordially invited.

A meeting was held after the preaching services Sunday at the East Lutheran Valley church at which Miss Irene Heyerdahl was elected organist and G. P. Shorud trustee in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spoon visited Mr. and Mrs. Alex Wiggins Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pluegel of Peoria, Ill., arrived Saturday to visit relatives until Tuesday when they expect to go to Edgewater, Wis., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Nels Walhvald.

Mrs. S. Huester, who has been in poor health for some time was not feeling so well Monday morning.

The blizzard raking Monday morning was the worst of the winter and prevented most of the pupils from attending school. The trains were all delayed for hours and business was slack.

Otto Mohrman who has been ill some time, is improving.

Milton Junction, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Do Forest Ruten is visiting at Ft. Atkin.

The rural carriers were not able to make their routes Monday on account of the bad storm.

Miss Bonnie Gilbert of Edgerton spent Sunday at home.

The friends and neighbors of Chas. Arnold gave them a surprise, Saturday night. Refreshments were served.

Rev. McManity was a Janesville caller Monday.

Fr. Hart is in Milwaukee.

Miss Heth of Koshkonong Visited in town the latter part of last week. Her son's little son is quite ill.

EDGERTON TRAFFIC HINDERED BY STORM

Extra Power on All Trains Which Ran Far Behind Schedule Time.

Edgerton, Feb. 27.—Owing to the bad storm of yesterday railroad traffic here was seriously hindered and while all trains were late it required two engines on passenger trains to make the trip. The five rural mail carriers out of Edgerton, also had trouble, each of whom returned after an unsuccessful attempt to plow through the highways. The carriers started out again this morning and it is thought that with the assistance of the farmers the roads soon will be in shape again for passage.

Edgerton News Notes. Joseph J. Leary went to White water today on business.

Mrs. W. T. Guttery has just returned from a stay of several days in Chicago.

James Stafford is confined to his home in the south part of the city suffering with a bad cold and general breaking down. Well advanced in years his condition is somewhat alarming.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Green, residing just north of the city, left this morning for Lake Mills where they were called on account of the death and funeral of Thomas O'Brien, brother of Mrs. Green.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, Feb. 26.—Last Thursday evening the members of the R. N. of A. met in Woodmen's Hall in a farewell party for Mrs. Carrie Becker, who leaves Tuesday for Walla Walla, Washington.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by all and delicious refreshments served. A sterling silver teaspoon with R. N. A. engraved in the bowl was presented to the neighbor.

Johnnie Canary spent Sunday at home.

Geo. Williams and Miss Grace Hatch were weekend visitors at Wm. Honeysett's.

Mrs. Crystal Snyder entertained the Young people of the Christian church at a surprise party last Wednesday night for Miss Zenia Becker. All reported a very fine time.

Mrs. John Turnbull returned to her home in Janesville Saturday, after spending several days nursing for her cousin, Mrs. E. H. Mattie.

Mrs. Ella Lacey is suffering with the grip.

Frank Honeysett and F. P. Wells attended the house sale at Evansville Saturday.

Clifford Snyder spent Sunday at F. W. Snyder's.

Miss Cora Drafsahl was the guest of Miss Mildred Parmley over Sunday and attended the party Saturday evening.

A number of our ladies are planning to attend the Summer Club meeting in Janesville Wednesday.

Clayton Honeysett and Otto Sarnow spent Sunday at home.

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. Quimby.

Quite a number from here attended the boxing match at Janesville Monday night.

Mr. Foote Edgerton spent Sunday at home.

There will be a number of changes in local politics here the coming week. John Langdon and men have completed the barn for the Milk Condensing factory.

Popinjay. The popinjay was a figure of a bird shot at for practice. The jay was decked with parrot-colored feathers so as to resemble a parrot, and, being suspended on a pole, served as a target. He whose ball or arrow brought down the bird by cutting the string by which it was hung received the proud title of "Capt. Popinjay" for the rest of the day, and was escorted home in triumph.—New York American.

Manner and Customs. The manners of some people encountered in taking walks abroad are suggestive of the report made by the old British sea captain who was sent out to investigate the manners and customs of the inhabitants of a newly-discovered Pacific island. His report was brief, as follows: "Manners they have none, and their customs are beastly."

Pleasant for the Judge. At the police court of a provincial French city an old pouter was condemned for the twentieth time. At the moment that the gendarmes led him away he said to the judge in a benevolent voice: "Don't be disturbed, Judge. You shall have your game all the same for dinner this evening."

LINK AND PIN LOCAL ST. PAUL YARD MAKES GOOD RECORD

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. More Than Ready for Big Storm and Had Engines Waiting to Handle Trouble in Best Condition.

Although yesterday proved to be one of the worst days in many years for railroads throughout the country the local shops of the St. Paul were equal to the emergency and could have held up under a much longer storm. Extra engines were fired up and crews were waiting all day to go out at any minute, but as all of the trains were double-headed there was nothing happened to demand the extras. All of the snow plows were out and they helped considerably in the worst places especially on the Mineral Point division where the drifting was worse than anywhere else on the road. All of the trains were late yesterday and some of them have been behind time today, but on the whole the traffic has been running at very close time considering the difficulties. No freights were sent out and this allowed the officials to direct all their efforts toward keeping the passenger service in good shape. Both of the trains from Broadhead, Monroe and Mineral Point were very late yesterday, the first being about twelve hours behind time and the second, which came in right behind it, was several hours off schedule. Altogether the St. Paul people are very well satisfied with the way things ran during the most disagreeable conditions and the local railroad men feel proud of their part in taking care of the traffic during the big storm.

Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE.

FORTUNE TELLING. I overheard this: "What do you think? I had my fortune told today."

"Yes. And what did the woman tell you?"

"Oh, a lot of things. Do you know, I believe there is something in it. She said I had a fortune coming to me from the old country, and that's true, and I am to take a big journey. And my life line is crossed by a great sorrow. And—"

"Let me see—"

"Oh, yes. I am to be married twice. A dark haired man and a blond woman are mixed up in my destiny, and an enemy will cause me trouble. The gypsy asked me the date of my birth, and my horoscope showed—"

And both women agreed they had been considerably disturbed by the babblings of some swarthy crone or the alleged revelations of some palm reader or star prophet.

Foolish ones! If one may judge by the advertisements of the clairvoyants and mediums and their like there must be a host of people who patronize the fakers.

Silly tribe of humans! What, think you, do the poor utterants who go faking from place to place know about the future?

When reduced to the last analysis their "revels" very little of a startling character.

If you live long enough you are likely to make a journey. If one amounts to anything he will have one or more enemies, sorrow is the common heritage of the race, there are a lot of black haired men and blond women in the world, and most persons have imaginary fortunes coming.

With plenty of trouble in the world why reach out for more—at the end of a fifty cent piece?

Witless patrons! How humans have been fooled by the folk who, from the witch of Endor down, have assumed to "summon spirits from the vasty deep"—for a small price in hand paid!

The future is veiled. And happily so. Do you fancy Providence has committed itself to some greasy gypsy or soothsaying peddler?

Let the future be. The present is all you need.

He who rashly tries to peer down the vista of coming days is as one who starts into a tangled maze of windings where, as old Omar says—

You "come out by the same door wherein you went."

At The Theatre

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER." However flimsy the theatrogoing people of America may be to nineteenth century of the ephemeral productions that pass across the stage, they are notably faithful to their favorites. The universal demand for another season of "The Chocolate Soldier," the exquisite Viennese opera by Oscar Strauss, founded on that brilliant compound of romance, comedy and satire by George Bernard Shaw, "Arms and the Man," has compelled Mr. Whitney to assemble again the Whitney Opera Company and send "The Chocolate Soldier" out across the country on its third season of selling millions of laughs with its spirited company and intoxicating them with the varied beauties of its melodious.

The king of modern light opera will be presented in this city at the Myers theatre, Tuesday evening March 5th. The temptations offered by the scenes of the play, which are laid in the mountainous defiles of Bulgaria, have spurred Mr. Whitney to extraordinary efforts in investing the piece with realistic efforts in the matter of scenery. The strange peasant and military costumes were made especially for the production by Bulgarian handicraftsmen, and much of the furniture used in the interiors was purchased from actual households in Bulgaria by Mr. Whitney, who spent many weeks in that land during the past three years, studying the manners and customs of the people. The production of "The Chocolate Soldier," which he is offering this year is marked by an even greater degree of elegance and vividness than heretofore.

The Whitney Opera Company is eminently fitted to cope with the difficulties of both score and libretto. Mr. Whitney's cardinal principle in selecting his companies is that every role, from the manager's point of view, is a leading role, and requires all the care that is generally given to fill in the "star" part in witness thereof. Attached is a copy of the program:

In the manner of the artist program: Frances Hewitt, Emma Louisa, Lotin Gale, Roy Purvance, J. Russell Powell, Olive Randolph, Nelson Riley, J.

Northwestern Train Due Here at 11:30 in the Morning Held Below Clinton by Drifts Yesterday.

Clinton, Feb. 27.—The passenger train due here at 10:50 a. m. yesterday morning got stuck fast and light in the snow in Laughter's cut, about four miles southeast of town. The engineer managed to get his engine through and the local officials of the company secured shovellers and sent them back on the engine to shovel out the train. The passengers succeeded in getting lunch at a near by farmhouse. The train was finally released about 2:00 p. m.

TAFT OR ROOSEVELT.

Now that all doubt is removed concerning Roosevelt's candidacy the political atmosphere is clarified, so far as the republican party is concerned, and the democrats will know what to do as soon as the republican convention adjourns. Should Roosevelt receive the nomination he will be opposed by a conservative of the Harman type, and should Taft be nominated, Woodrow Wilson will doubtless be the democratic standard-bearer.

The contest which will be of absorbing interest for the next few months, will be between the Taft and Roosevelt forces, which in its last analysis means a fight between the conservative East and the radical West. It was hoped that this contest might be avoided, for the interests of the East and West are mutual, and the nation is always at its best when these interests are so regarded.

The recent utterances of Mr. Roosevelt places him in the front rank of the progressives, and makes him acceptable to the followers of La Follette and Cummins. It is safe to assume that he will unite the scattered forces, and be the only progressive leader in the field, within thirty days.

There is, however, a respectable element of progressive republicans who believe in fair play, and while these men are not great admirers of President Taft, they do not like the way he has been treated by the extreme columns; and will show their disapproval by supporting Taft.

Then, too, the West has a strong contingency of conservative republicans who are loyal to Taft and will support him because they believe him to be safe and sane, and entitled to another term. Even the insurgent state of Wisconsin has a little army of this kind of men who will be heard from when the time comes. The Ducker delegation will either be for Roosevelt or Taft, because La Follette is out of the race. As between the two men the state is for Taft and should be so represented in the convention.

THE EVENING PAPER.

H. E. Rhoads of the San Diego Sun, after quoting statistics from department stores and large advertising agencies regarding the comparative value of advertising in morning and evening newspapers, has this to say about the evening paper:

"The chief reasons given by the big stores for their overwhelming faith in the evening paper are as follows:

"The evening paper is delivered at the home each night, when the whole family has plenty of time to read it."

"It is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done, and it stays there. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family, and after being hurriedly read, is thrown away."

"The evening paper is thoroughly read, and all the advertisements receive their share of attention."

"It presents the store news a little ahead, giving the prospective buyer time to plan a shopping tour for the next day."

"The evening paper presents the news the day it happens—the morning paper the day after."

"The evening paper presents the news first—the morning paper merely elaborates it."

"The evening paper prints daylight news—the morning paper takes what is left."

The evening paper, wherever published, is the home paper, and because of this fact it is the best advertising medium. Men may furnish the money, but the women do the buying, and no bargain escapes them when published in their family paper. The Gazette is read in 2,000 homes in Janesville.

THE RAILWAY PROBLEM.

The railroads of the country are facing a problem which they have never been called upon to face before, and which as yet they are unable to solve. The era of retrenchment, covering the past four years, has meant the depletion of equipment, until today the companies are compelled to say to the people: "If you want adequate service for the next four years it will be necessary for American railroads to expend from three and a half to four billion dollars."

The companies are ready to finance the undertaking, providing they can be assured of fair treatment. Much of this money must be raised through the sale of securities, and these can not be marketed unless confidence can be maintained. The credit of a railway corporation is just as important as the credit of an individual, and unless interest and dividend payments are promptly met, securities shrink rapidly in value and soon become unmarketable.

The Railway Business Association has just issued a bulletin, a synopsis of which appeared in Monday's paper. It sets forth the wants of the railroads and is an impassioned appeal for fairness in dealing with these corporations, whose interests are so closely allied with the interests of all the people. Fighting railroads may be popular amusements, but it is ruinous to the welfare of the country.

The time for spring primaries is fast approaching and the voters should take care in making their selections as to the candidates now in the field. But one candidate for mayor and two for commissioners can be voted for by any individual voter and sentiment should not play any part in the selection. Good common-sense is needed.

TAFT DELEGATES.

Now that the line between Taft and Roosevelt, and La Follette, is most clearly drawn by the announcement of Colonel Roosevelt that he would accept the nomination, it is interesting to note just who the four candidates for delegate at large on the Taft republican ticket at the April election are.

It is a significant fact that of the four nominated by the Taft conference, three were formerly supporters of Senator La Follette. Ten years ago former Gov. W. D. Hoard, former Gov. James O. Davidson, and former Senator George B. Hudnall were in the front of the La Follette battle line. One by one they dropped away from him. Today they are fighting against him as hard as they fought for him in years past. Each is known to the people of the state for the work done in advancing its interests and the prosperity of its people.

W. D. Hoard laid the foundation for much of the prosperity of Wisconsin when almost unaided and alone, he established the reign of the cow-making dairymen, a leading agricultural pursuit in the state, and adding millions to the value of farm property. While not a politician in the general acceptance of the word, he has always been interested in politics and has been looked upon for years as one of the republican leaders of Wisconsin. He served one term as governor but never forgot his allegiance to the patent cow.

When the La Follette movement started in Wisconsin, Mr. Hoard was one of the leading men in this movement, giving Mr. La Follette a hearty and influential support. Little by little he found it impossible to travel in double harness with him and their ways parted. He is an ardent supporter of President Taft, believing, as he said in his telegram to the conference, that Taft is the best president the country has had since Lincoln.

E. L. Phillips' name is a household word among the conservatives of Wisconsin. Mr. Phillips has been active in politics until, as he said at the recent conference, some people look upon him as a politician. He has been a stalwart when stalwartism in Wisconsin was not recognized as good form in the political life of the state. He is a hard fighter, always smiling, no matter how hard he is hit, one of the men who do not know when they are beaten. He has been a steady and consistent opponent of La Folletteism.

Former Gov. James O. Davidson started out as a loyal and valuable supporter of Gov. La Follette. It was Mr. Davidson who was selected by Gov. La Follette to run with him on the state ticket as lieutenant governor, saying that if anything should happen to him Mr. Davidson would carry out his policies. Mr. Davidson has a host of friends throughout the state.

Former Senator George B. Hudnall is a lawyer at Superior, Wis., and came into prominence politically for his activity in the campaigns which elected La Follette governor. While in the state senate, Mr. Hudnall was one of the leaders. He had much to do with the passage of the railroad rate bill and other measures. Mr. Hudnall is one of the strong republicans of the state.

WATERLOO AND ELCA.

Today's Washington dispatches give a good one from the lips of Speaker Clark that is well worth recording. Clark, be it known, is a democratic aspirant for the presidential nomination, and what he says gets into print very often. This time he hits Roosevelt and the republican party a neat rap.

Speaker Clark, in speaking of Colonel Roosevelt's announcement, said: "There are some peculiar and interesting facts in the republican embargo. The big wise appear to have forgotten historical facts or to scorn them. Many persons were amazed when the Republican National committee fixed their convention for the 18th day of June, the anniversary of Waterloo. Now comes Colonel Roosevelt on February 26, on the day when Napoleon escaped from Elba. No doubt the result of the November election will complete the historic parallel by sending not only the colonel but the whole republican party to St. Helena—a consummation devoutly to be wished. This year all things work together for the success of democrats and the good of the country."

Janesville was honored last evening by the address of such a man as Stephen S. Gregory, President of the American Bar Association, and the lawyers of the Rock County Bar Association should be complimented on having invited him to attend their annual banquet.

Now comes the senate hearing the end of the Lorimer and Stephenson investigations wanting to find out why Millionaire Dupont of Delaware spent so much to be elected.

Military maneuvers in Texas are getting to be all the rage and after a while congress will order the entire army there every spring just for practice.

February always was an awful "cut-up" anyway. With its few days to accomplish things it usually tries to hand out some unusual stunt.

Any man wanting work and willing to work can find plenty of opportunity in shoveling snow these bright days.

By careful economy an ex-chorus girl should be able to manage on a palfrey five hundred a month.

WASHINGTON

GEORGE'S BODY SERVANTS.

ROY K. MOULTON

Washington, February 4.
Dear Editor:
There is one unique institution in Washington, and I must speak of it briefly or explode. The institution referred to is George Washington's personal body servant. He is a numerous and ubiquitous institution and can be found in the most surprising walks of life. The first one I discovered was running the elevator in our hotel.

ROY K. MOULTON

He is the only surviving body servant of George Washington. It is unnecessary to prove it on him, for he is perfectly willing to admit it. There are believed to be eighty-five or one hundred other only surviving body servants of George Washington in this city, but they are said to be scattered about through other portions of the South, quite discretely. I have met twenty or twenty-five only surviving body servants, and I have been here only a short time, and will probably meet the rest of them before I leave. George Washington must have been surrounded by a standing army of body servants.

As I have stated, the first personal body servant of George Washington I met was running the elevator in our hotel. He told us about it while we were going from the first floor to the second. Personal body servants of the late George Washington lose no time. We sighed deeply and handed him $1 in grateful appreciation of services rendered the truthful George. There may be some things in environment, but none of George's well-known truthfulness ever soaked into any of his body servants. The body servant running the elevator looked to be about forty years old.

"What's your name?" we asked, a flimsy Sherlock Holmes idea having penetrated our dome of thought. "Abraham Lincoln Jones," he replied, with a face as innocent of guile as that of a standard congressman making a speech in his home district.

Mr. Bryan gets out of the race more easily than Roosevelt got in.

PRESS COMMENT

Foresight To Spare.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE EXTREMES OF FORTUNE.

By A. W. MACY.

Few careers have covered wider extremes of fortune than that of John of Cappadocia. He was a Roman officer of very high rank under the Emperor Justinian, in the sixth century. He was a very able man, and under his direction the finances of the government flourished wonderfully. Incidentally he amassed a great fortune for himself. But he was very corrupt, and the revenues were raised "on the death of thousands, the poverty of millions, the ruin of cities, and the desolation of provinces." He lived most extravagantly, and indulged in all sorts of wicked practices. But his life of ostentatious profligacy was suddenly changed into one of abject poverty. Though guilty of many crimes, he was accused of one of which he seems to have been innocent, and was condemned to be scourged like the lowest of criminals. Nothing of his vast fortune was left him but one old ragged cloak, and it is said that for seven years he begged bread in the streets of cities that once had trembled at his name.

Thousands of Messages

Janesville and vicinity was treated yesterday to the most severe weather for many years. The blizzard was the worst since '81.

As the temperature goes down, the telephone traffic goes up. The worse the weather the greater the demand on us.

Yesterday with almost all other means of communication and transportation crippled the Rock County Telephone System had to carry the burden. It did it well.

Everybody used the telephone. Delays were explained, engagements postponed, fears allayed. The traffic over our lines amounted to thousands of messages during the day, was the heaviest in the history of the city, and was handled without a flaw.

About "That" Sale

It is extremely hard to start a sale at The Big Store which shall pass the precedents already established. All season the offerings here have set a pace which has never before been equaled. Great sales have followed each other in rapid succession, each presenting more extraordinary opportunities than the last. The standard of value-giving has been raised beyond anything that Janesville ever knew. But the difficulty has been accomplished; the precedents have been equaled and surpassed; the unequalled prestige and purchasing power of The Big Store have been turned to best account and we announced the greatest sale ever held in Janesville.

He is Sam Jones and Dr. Williams in one, for he has the pungent sarcasm of the one and the brilliant gift of the other. He is one of the greatest entertainers and the best drawing card on the lecture platform.

Dr. Gumsalus says: "I asked Dr. Sears to come to Armour Institute for the reason that I wished the students to hear and enjoy a clean, ennobling and profoundly sensible lecture, one which made me laugh more abundantly and more constantly than any lecture I have heard since the days of dear old John B. Gough of whom the Doctor reminds me so much."

Let P. Donachamp says: "He touched in me the fountain of laughter and tears, and won my affections, respect and love. He is a great-hearted, great-brained, great-souled man."

LIST OF CANDIDATES AT PRIMARY CLOSED

Time of Filing Papers Ended Today

Four for Mayor and Twenty-four for Councilmen.

The names of four candidates for mayor and twenty-four candidates for councilmen will be placed upon the ballot to be submitted to the voters of Janesville on Tuesday, March 12, the last day in which names may be placed on the ballot. Today was the last day in which names may be placed on the ballot. The names of the candidates are as follows:

A variety of professions and businesses are represented in the list of those for mayor and councilmen. Of the candidates for mayor two are city officers, one of whom is a lawyer, one is a milk dealer, and one a contractor. Among the candidates for councilmen are five aldermen, one city officer, two carpenters, one contractor, two assessors, one engineer, one of the following positions, business or profession, lawyer, hardware dealer, lumberman, retired merchant, veterinarian, carriage manufacturer, cafe proprietor, barber, paint dealer, traveling salesman, retired grocer, shoe salesman, feed dealer, under sheriff, retired hotel proprietor, and salaried municipal employee.

Five days remain in which candidates for the other city offices may file nomination papers. These are a justice of the peace, school commissioner at large, supervisors and constables in each ward and school commissioners in the second and fourth wards.

Election day comes on April 2, two weeks after the primaries, and just five weeks from today.

The complete list of candidates for mayor and councilmen before the primary, are as follows:

PAY SPECIAL LEVY INTO COUNTY FUND

Township Highway Money Raised

Under New Law Must Be Paid Into County Treasury.

Some uncertainty has existed in the minds of the county and township officials in regard to the payment of the special highway funds raised in the various townships at special meetings held during the month of August 1911 in order to secure the state aid money under the new highway law. This question raised was whether the money raised in the township should remain in the township treasury or should be paid into the county treasury there to be credited to the township's highway fund. Inquiry at the office of the state highway commissioner has found the latter case to be in accordance with the interpretation of section 137m-4, of chapter 337, laws of 1911. Consequently all highway money raised in the towns to conform with the provision of the state aid law must be paid to the county treasurer who will give credit for the amount to the township along with the like amount forthcoming from the county and the appropriation to the township from the state.

The sum which the township shall receive from the state will be determined at Madison by the highway commission and forwarded to the county treasurer who will credit the various amounts to the various towns according to the apportionment made.

STOCK COMPANY REMAINS BUT TWO WEEKS LONGER

Adelaide Dalton Company Will Close

Engagement Here With Productions Next Week.

The Adelaide Dalton Stock Company will be at the Myers theater this week and next, at the end of which time the engagement here will close. "Dad's Girl" will be the play produced tonight and Wednesday matinee and evening. This promises to be a rural comedy of more than passing worth, and is calculated to please the most critical.

The bill for the last part of the week will be, "The American Girl," which will be one of the best bills of the company's engagement. Vandeville features will be introduced and a fine entertainment is promised. The management states that it has a prize in store for theatergoers in the productions for the closing week.

Owing to the severe weather conditions the show last evening was not given.

ANY CITY CAN HAVE SERVICES OF NURSE

Anti-Tuberculosis Society Has Made

Arrangements to Send Dr. Williams Visiting Nurse.

Adopted by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, any city in the state may secure the services of a visiting nurse for one week by making payment to the state association to cover a part of the expenses. The state society incurs part of the expense and the local tuberculosis societies the remainder.

Dr. Maude Williams who did such efficient work in this city last November and December, is the nurse employed by the state association to fill the calls from various cities. Dr. Williams gets to Janesville this week to begin her activities under the new plan and it is thought that the demand for her services will be pressing.

The continuance of the work of the visiting nurse is due to the excellent results accomplished during the past year in the twelve cities of the state. Janesville was one which won the services of a nurse offered by the state association in the 1910 sale of Christmas stamps. Other cities have seen the need and donations have been made to further the work. In Appleton the services of a nurse have been secured for one year through the generosity of one of the citizens.

PROF. WEST IN ADDRESS TO STUDENTS THIS MORNING

Tells of Work Done at Battle Creek Sanitarium and of Equipment Required.

Prof. A. B. West, instructor of mathematics at the local high school, addressed the students this morning during opening exercises. His talk was a description of the Battle Creek Sanitarium and was made very clear and interesting by pictures which were thrown on the screen by Prof. John Bartholomew. The pictures showed Dr. Kellogg's institution to be a fine story, fire-proof building, six hundred feet in length. The institution has some of the best equipment of its kind in the world. The object of the sanitarium is to provide proper care for the body and work on the mind. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," a kindergarten, bath, swimming pools and various devices contribute to exercising the muscles. In a first class kitchen the foods are prepared and under no circumstances is meat served at the institution. A large corps of nurses administer to the needs of the patients and throughout the institution the motto, "Care is the best cure" is borne out.

AUTOMATIC PHONES MAY BE INSTALLED

Officials of Rock County Telephone

Company Confer With Manager of Automatic Electric Company.

Automatic telephone service may be installed by the Rock County Telephone Company as the result of a conference of its officers this afternoon with H. D. Critchfield, general manager of the Automatic Electric Company of Chicago, at the office of Secretary Richard Valentine.

Mr. Critchfield comes prepared to submit estimates of the cost of installing the automatic service, to explain its peculiar advantages, and give other information the officers of the Rock County system may desire to receive.

Radical changes, the nature of which is yet to be determined, will be made within a short time in the company's plant. If the automatic service is not adopted, a central energy system, such as is used by the Bell system, will be installed.

SUFFRAGETTES BEGIN ORGANIZING COUNTY

Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy Made President of

Rock County Political Equality League Organized Yesterday

—Miss Curtis Speaks.

About twenty ladies of Janesville who are interested in the question of suffrage gathered at the library last evening and after hearing a strong plea for the suffrage cause from Miss Alice Curtis of Milwaukee, a county organization was started. Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy was elected president of the Rock County Political Equality League, and a nominating committee was chosen.

Miss Curtis who is going through the state starting this county societies and working up interest in the suffrage movement is a strong and interesting speaker. During her address she spoke of the size of the territory over which this movement has already made its way twenty counties of the world being included. She brought out many other interesting things in her discussion of the subject. This large and sympathetic audience is watching with sympathy the progress toward a more liberal democracy, for woman suffrage is only another step toward the practical application of the theory of democracy.

The greatest arguments for democracy are strong arguments for the political equality of men and women in as much as "Government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed" and "taxation without representation is tyranny." There are at present 8,000,000 working women and 6,000,000 club women who want the vote in the United States, Wisconsin itself being about one half women.

In closing her address Miss Curtis showed why these women need the vote to fulfill their higher responsibilities as home makers and why the state needs the vote of the women to make its government reflect the true convictions of all the governed.

There will be another public meeting on Woman Suffrage next Tuesday addressed by Miss Grimm at the Janesville High School.

INTEREST SHOWN IN INSTITUTE PROGRAM

Final Sessions Held Saturday Afternoon and Evening Attracted Large Audiences—Other News.

Evansville, Feb. 26.—In spite of the disagreeable weather and bad roads, a good sized audience was in attendance at the afternoon session of the Farmers' Institute Saturday afternoon. S. S. Jones, county road commissioner, gave a very helpful and interesting talk on "Good Roads." "The American Dairyman's Registration Association" was discussed by Judge C. D. Ross of Beloit. Miss Vernaline Johnson gave a recitation in a very pleasing manner. "The Farm and the Future" was the subject treated by Hon. A. H. Sholtz. Mr. Sholtz talked on the subject in his usual pleasing manner. More interest was shown in this last speech as Mr. Sholtz was formerly principal of the high school here.

Saturday evening the opera house could scarcely accommodate the large crowd. Clifford's orchestra gave several very pretty selections during the evening.

The high school Girls' Glee Club rendered three very pleasing numbers. The high school surely is to be commended upon the Glee Club as their singing shows that a great deal of work and time have been spent. The primary grades gave a dramatization of "Mother Goose Rhymes." The children were dressed in costumes to represent the various characters, such as "Mother Goose," "Little Boy Blue," "Humpty Dumpty," "Little Miss Muffet," etc. Piano solos were played by Marlowe Smith and Beadie Brown, also a piano duet by Corinne Murwin and Beadie Brown.

Musical was given by the younger members of the grades who were dressed in various costumes representing "Sailor Laddies," "Sweet Peas," "Japanese Girls," and the "Anvil Song."

Intermediate grades children were also dressed to represent various characters as the "Umbrella Girls," "Conical Hays and Girls," and many others. A short sketch, entitled "George Washington's Fortune," was given by six boys and one of the girls and one of the intermediate grades. "Salute to the Flag" and "The Girls of '76" was given in a very pleasing manner.

Paul Chase sang two very beautiful solos.

A very laughable and well delivered dialogue was given, entitled, "The Train to Morrow," by three members of the eighth grade.

The teachers and the pupils are to be complimented for their very interesting and pleasing program.

The Humane Society will hold a meeting at the library hall Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Father McDermott will speak on "What the Milwaukee Schools are Doing to Help the Advancement of the Humane Society Movement." Following the program light refreshments will be served and any friends who are interested in the advancement of a good cause are cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. T. C. Richardson has returned from Janesville, where she was in attendance at the meeting of the Wisconsin Library Board, which were held there last week.

Harley Smith was home from Madison over Sunday.

Miss Madeline Antos of Madison was home Saturday and Sunday.

William Douglas has returned to his home in La Crosse after a week's visit with relatives here.

Robert Antos had the misfortune to sprain his ankle during the Evansville-Janesville basketball game at Janesville last Saturday night. Undoubtedly the home boys would have been victorious had not this accident happened to their captain and one of their best players.

Mrs. Charles Atkinson has returned from a short visit with friends in Janesville.

Miss Houlah Day was home from Brooklyn for over Sunday.

Miss Mae Heron who teaches at De Forest, is home for a short visit with her parents.

Henry Wolf of Brooklyn was an Evansville visitor Saturday.

The Misses Charles of Oil City, Pa., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Haron.

Miss Kate Hanover has returned from a two weeks' stay in Chicago. Beginning next Friday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, Rev. D. Q. Grubill will have a pastor's class in the Sunday school room at the Congregational church. This class will meet Friday afternoon from now until Easter.

Albert Webb of Albany held a horse sale at the Central Horse livery barn Saturday afternoon. About a car load of horses were sold and the prices were high, ranging from $200 and up.

RARE GAME BIRDS ARE IMPORTED TO THIS COUNTRY

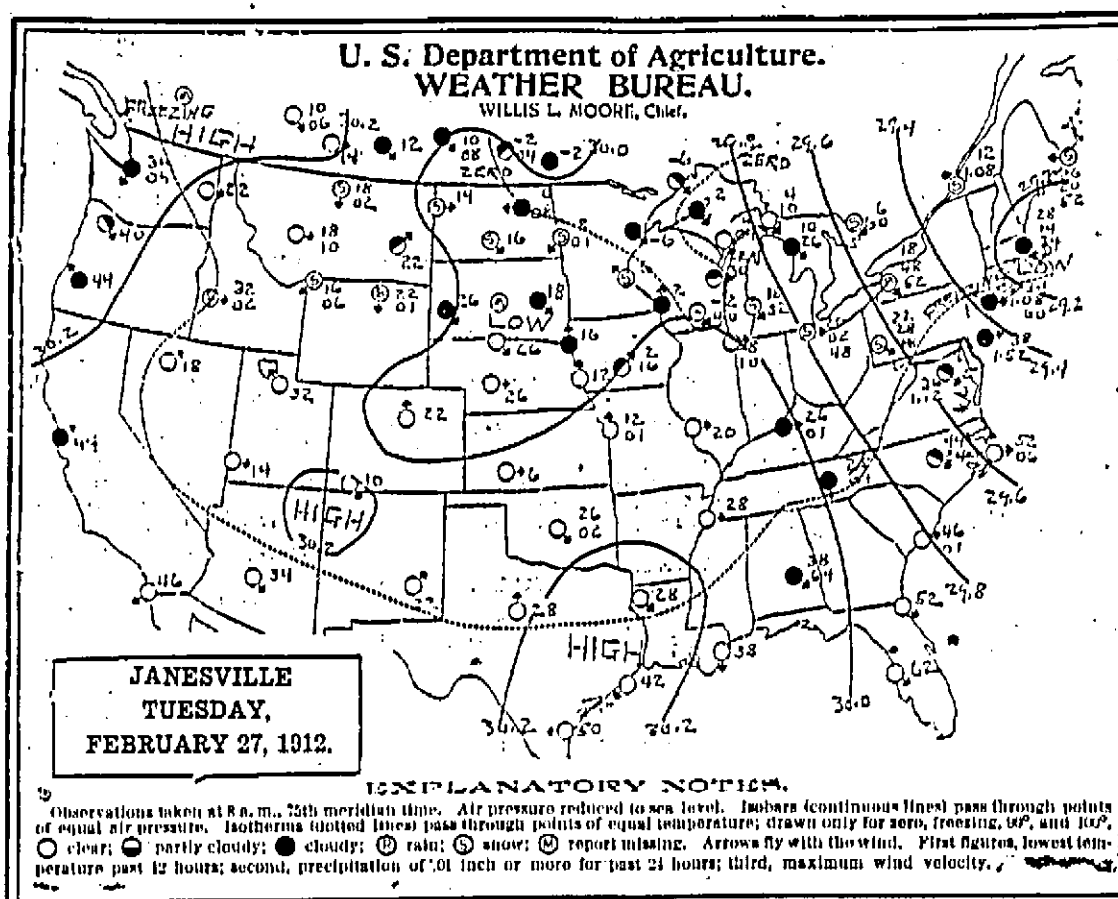

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Feb. 27.—A thousand rare game birds from Siberia and the Orient reached New York today on the steamship Milwaukee, destined for Oak Park, Chicago, Ill., where they will be mated and their young distributed throughout the United States by Samuel Evans and his son, Wallace, who brought them to this country. Among the collection are ducks from Lake Baikal, in Siberia, considered the finest of game birds over taken from their native haunts; geese, swan and ducks from Formosa, Japan, Egypt, Holland, Lake Victoria, Nyanza and remote sections of Europe.

PRIVATE SOLDIER PUT ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Matthew Carlyle of Tenth Cavalry Charged With Taking Life of Fellow Trooper.

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 27.—The terms of the Federal court which convened here today will be made notable by the trial for murder of Matthew Carlyle, a private in the Tenth United States Cavalry regiment. While stationed at Fort Allen last fall Carlyle ran amuck and shot and killed Andrew C. Fox, a fellow trooper, and seriously wounded two negro girls.

Yesterday's storm has reached the Atlantic coast, after moving over the Lake region and Ohio valley. It was attended throughout its entire course by heavy precipitation and high winds. Montreal, New York, Atlantic City and Washington report exceptionally heavy precipitation. The barometer is still slightly below normal throughout the Northwest, and unsettled weather with local snow flurries prevails in the upper Missouri and Red River valleys. It is generally fair in the Northwest. It is somewhat colder in the central and southeastern states following the storm, but the change was much less severe than it would have been had the area of high barometric pressure that was in the Northwest Sunday morning moving southward across the track of the storm instead of moving parallel with it.

For this vicinity the indications are that cloudy and unsettled weather will prevail tonight and Wednesday, possibly with snow flurries. It will be warmer.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

Bachelor Living For Business Women

I AM going to live just like a man," said an up-to-date business woman recently to a friend.

The remark is rather significant of woman's changing attitude toward life. This woman was not unusual, in the usual sense of the word. But she was practical. She had taken a responsible position. She saw that certain things about a man's life were sensible. And she determined to adopt them.

"I am going to live in apartments," she went on to explain, "where I will be perfectly comfortable. But I am not going to do one thing about these apartments. Men don't dust and clean after they have had a hard day's work at the office. And neither shall I. I am doing a man's work, and I shall live a man's life. I will get my meals in the dining room of the apartment house, good, substantial meals, too. I don't even mean to sew on a button. When I get through with my work, I am going to rest, relax, enjoy myself, do whatever I think will make me refreshed and ready for my work next day."

She certainly was right. And the woman who does this is not making herself unusual. She is simply picking out those sane, sensible parts of a man's life, which in themselves are sensible, and incorporating them into her own life, now that it has become in its workaday hours like a man's. Just as women, who spend their lives in the business world, will in time have to adopt those features of men's dress that save time and strength. This does not mean that they will wear trousers and derby hats, it simply means that they will have to eliminate from dress, those many little things that require so much time to arrange. They were all right when women had the time to fuss over them. But the woman who is carrying heavy business responsibilities can no more take time to fuss over a dozen and one toilet trifles, than can a man, of a big position, waste time with sleeve ruffles and a powdered wig.

And those changes that are coming in these superficialities of life do not mean that women are less womanly or men less manly. It simply means that they are adapting themselves to the changes that advancing civilization brings.

And if more business women would take the stand this woman has taken, there would be fewer of them breaking down, going to pieces under the strain, and becoming nervous wrecks. The business pace is too strenuous today for the business woman, especially of a big position, to be a home-woman in the sense of doing home work in addition to her business duties.

RURAL SCHOOLS.

THE combination of a number of district schools into a central school, making provision for carrying the children, is the best solution yet offered for the improvement of the country schools. The experiment has been successfully tried in many sections. It would make more rapid progress if farmers did not object to the cost.

But as a matter of economy it should be considered how much hard-earned money goes from the community to the neighboring towns and villages, not only for tuition alone, but for expenses of living incurred by the large number of ambitious boys and girls who go from the farms to the town for better school privileges. More than this, if good schools were maintained in farm communities, the courses of study and the months of the school year might be adapted to the needs of agricultural districts. There could be six months' courses for older children, as has proven successful in agricultural high schools, or the half-day plan of trade schools. This would enable the young folks to keep up their school and help on the farm in seasons when they are most needed.

It has been wisely suggested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that the consolidated rural school center should have a co-operative creamery, laundry, bakery (why not co-operative stores?), features very much needed to lighten the work of women on the farm.

Just think how easily this consolidated school center could be made an ideal social center of farm life, whose service would be for the present generation what the "little red school house" was for the past. There is no doubt that the consolidated rural school is in line with educational growth and advancement. Women should become interested in the movement and give it their active support.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Practical and Reasonable Answers to the Daily Breakfast Question.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

A maid once in my employ had a habit of coming to me every evening after dinner dishes were done with the abbreviated question, "What's for?" with accent on the first word. Her plan for settling the breakfast problem the night before is a worthy one too little practiced. No housekeeper can deny that at times who shrinks the responsibility and either hurries together the morning meal, or leaves her helper to make the most of what happens to be on hand. This tends to falling into monotony.

Among the good and reasonable things that may be served for breakfast are raised graham muffins, rye puffs, graham or whole wheat griddle cakes, lyonnais potatoes, baked eggs and broiled tripe.

The muffins must be mixed the evening before which to some housekeepers is a disadvantage but it is worth while now and then to make some exertion to get rid of the inevitable toast. Put into a mixing bowl one cup of boiling water, one cup of milk heated to the scolding point, a rounded tablespoon of butter, one-quarter cup of sugar and one-half level teaspoon of salt. When lukewarm add one-quarter of a yeast cake, one beaten egg and four cups of flour. Let rise until double its bulk which it should do overnight. Have muffin pans buttered, fill half full of the light dough and let stand until they are full. Bake in a moderate oven.

For lyonnais potatoes cut boiled potatoes into thin slices. Heat three level tablespoons of butter in a frying pan with a slice of onion. Cook a minute, add the potatoes and also a tablespoon of gravy or hot water. Heat until browned on the under side, sprinkle a little minced parsley over and serve.

Rye puffs are made from one cup of rye meal, one cup of flour, a salt spoon of salt, one-quarter cup of sugar and three level teaspoons of baking powder sifted together. Mix with one cup of milk and one beaten egg and bake in hot greased muffin pans. Served hot with maple syrup, and these little cakes will please even those who think that they do not like rye meal.

Little ramekins or earthen dishes are much used for baking eggs, but they can be cooked successfully in a large dish. Butter either size and if small ones are used drop in one or two whole eggs, dust with salt and pepper and put a bit of butter on each. Set into a moderate oven and let the eggs cook through but not harden. They must be watched closely; serve in the same dishes. For a change scatter crumbs or finely minced ham over the butter before the eggs are put in.

For light griddle cakes measure one-half cup of graham flour after sifting out the coarse bran, one cup of wheat flour and three level teaspoons of baking powder, the same of sugar and one-third of a teaspoon of salt. Add one beaten egg, one tablespoon of melted butter and one and one-quarter cups of milk. Beat hard and fry in spoonfuls on a greased hot griddle. If the batter is too thick add a tablespoon more of milk.

A syrup to serve with griddle cakes is made by cooking one cup of brown sugar and one-half cup of boiling water five minutes. Skim well, add a pinch of salt and a few drops of vanilla.

Each day the earth is born anew
For him who takes it rightly.

It is as much a duty we owe to the world to be ornamental as to be useful.

SOME CHOICE RECIPES.

The following recipes have been gathered from the cherished books of many cooks:

Doughnuts Without Eggs.—Take two cupsful of sour milk, a cup of thick sour cream or six tablespoonsful of hot fat, a teaspoonful of soda and a cup of sugar and four teaspoonsful of baking powder sifted with flour enough to roll very soft. Flavor with nutmeg and let stand to get very cold, then they can be handled quite soft.

Sponge Drops.—Beat the whites of three eggs until thick and lemon-colored; add gradually, beating constantly, a third of a cup of powdered sugar; add the yolks of two eggs, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a third of a cup of flour, vanilla to flavor. Drop on buttered tins to bake. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Queen's Fritters.—Put three tablespoonsful of butter into a half cup of water over a fire; when boiling add a half cup of flour. Cool and add two eggs, beating thoroughly. The eggs are to be added one at a time. Fry the mixture by spoonfuls in smoking hot fat.

Queen's Pudding.—Take the yolks of four eggs, two-thirds of a cup of sugar, two tablespoonsful of butter, two cups of cracker crumbs rolled fine, five cups of sweet milk. Mix well and bake in a moderate oven three-quarters of an hour.

Sauce.—Warm a fourth of a pound of butter, add a cup of powdered sugar, the rind and juice of a lemon. Add a half cup of whipped cream.

Coffee Jelly.—To two cups of strong coffee add half a box of gelatine which has been softened in a cup of cold water. Sweeten to taste and stir well while cooling. Serve in sherbet cups with sweetened whipped cream.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A FRIEND of mine, in walking through a shop one day, came to a narrow doorway, just as another woman was about to pass through in the opposite direction. My friend politely stepped to one side to allow the other woman to pass, but just as she did so, the other woman also moved in the same direction. The first woman moved again, and again the other woman dodged at just the same instant.

Thinking that this had gone on long enough, my friend stood still and said with great dignity, "Madam, if you will stand on one side or the other, I will endeavor to pass you." At this moment, the floor walker caught sight of her and sprang to the rescue, pointing out to the astonished lady that the woman whom she had had so much difficulty in attempting to pass, was no other than her own reflection, as she was facing a mirror.

Now that is a very amusing and unusual experience, and was probably due partially to the lady's near-sightedness, but I doubt if there is one of us, no matter how keen-eyed, who has not sometimes, in similar wise, caught sight of himself in an unexpected mirror, and for at least an instant, completely failed to recognize himself.

And, if so much can be true in regard to our outer selves which we see daily, and indeed many times daily, in our mirrors, tell me, friends, how would it be with our inner selves, our personalities, our individualities. If we could for an instant catch sight of them—"as others see them."

Arnold Bennett has a fascinating essay along these lines, in which he quaintly asks, "Has it ever struck you that there is a mysterious individual going around, walking the streets, calling at houses for tea, chatting, hushing, grumbling, arguing, and that all your friends know him and have long since added him up and come to a definite conclusion about him—without saying more than a chance, cautious word to you; and that that person is you?"

Isn't that a quaint thought, and a true one?

Perhaps the "you" which other people know is more virtuous and more interesting than the "you" whom you yourself know. And then again, perhaps he is the opposite. But in either case he is a totally different person. Would you not give a great deal to meet him as you meet other people? I'm sure you would.

And wouldn't we learn a lot? Of course, we can never meet him or her face to face as we meet our outer selves in the mirror, but I think we can, to a certain extent, make the acquaintance of this elusive personage, if we will make the necessary mental effort.

And I think it would be a healthful exercise. Try it some day.

Try to—
"Just stand aside and watch yourself go by;
Think of yourself as 'he' instead of 'I'.
Pick flaws; find fault; forget the man is you,
And strive to make your estimate ring true.
The faults of others then will dwarf and shrink,
Love's chain grow stronger by one mighty link,
When you with 'he' in substitute for 'I'
Have stood aside and watched yourself go by."

—Strickland W. Gillman.

Had Policeman Stumped.
The plan whereby Chicago streets shall be numbered as streets or avenues is one of importance, says the Chicago Evening Post. If it needs further advocacy, listen to Irvin S. Cobb: "A policeman," says Irvin, "was traveling his beat with new resolution and a notebook when he came across a dead horse. Out came the notebook and in went this notation: 'Found at 3:30 o'clock this morning a dead horse at —'. He glanced up at the lamp post which bore the names of two intersecting streets, Magnolia avenue and Tensipho place. And do you know, the poor copper had to put his notebook away and hunt the horse by his tail to First and Main streets."

Singing Cure.
The suggestion that singing may be used in the fight against pulmonary tuberculosis is an interesting one, and is a further instance of the therapeutic value of hygienic measures which is so large an item in the current professional creed.—From the Hospital.

DIET PLAN FOR SEDENTARY WORKERS.

It is an old saying that fruit is golden in the morning and leaden in the evening, and recent experiments seem to demonstrate the truth of this popular belief. The processes of digestion are more rapid in the morning and hence fruits which are more quickly digested are more appropriate.

A good practice is to eat only an apple in the morning, the dinner in the evening, not later than six, and a lunch of only one or two articles of substantial food at noon. This plan is easily adopted by the sedentary worker and the beneficial results are soon apparent, after the system has become adapted to it.

BREAKING OUT COVERED BODY

Where Scratched It Made Sores: Terrible Itching and Burning Kept Her from Sleeping. Cuticura Remedies Completely Cured Her. No Return.

"Three years ago this winter I had a break-out that covered my whole body. It itched so it seemed as if I should go crazy. It first came out in little pimples on my back and spread all over my body and limbs down to my knees, also my arms down to my elbows. Where I scratched, it made sores, and the terrible itching and burning kept me from sleeping. I tried several remedies, but all to no purpose. Then I concluded to use Cuticura. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, also the Resol, and after about four months, I have had no return of the disease since. I never had a good night's rest until I began using the first bottle of Cuticura. I had only used them a few days before I could see they were beginning to heal, and the terrible itching was gone."

"Those that lived in the house at the time knew how I suffered, and how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me. I never take a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better remedies for any skin disease than the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I recommend Miss Sarah Callahan, Wakefield, Ill., March 18, 1911."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale throughout the world, but to those who have suffered much, lost hope and are without faith in any treatment, a liberal sample of each together with a booklet on the cure and treatment of the skin and scalp will be mailed free, on application. FOR AGED PEOPLE

Old Folks Should Be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer it with our personal guarantee that it shall cure the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowels, thus overcoming weakness, and adding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c, 25c, and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

JUDGES SHOULD STAND LIKE A ROCK AGAINST THE CRY FOR BLOOD

There is to remain for life, subject only to the exercise of the pardoning power. A real lunatic who has committed a homicide seldom or never recovers.

"I imagine that there would be the greatest opposition to the second suggestion, yet in my judgment it would be well calculated to promote justice."

"As to expert testimony that presents a question of great difficulty. On this I think physicians and lawyers both have much to learn. There is too much intolerance and too much dogmatism and prejudice on both sides. Generally this works against the prisoner. The criminal has no political or other influence, no unions, no business that is desired by physicians or lawyers and, as a rule, no money to pay either."

"The state is amply equipped in this regard; and sometimes I have been shocked at the testimony of medical men called for the prosecution, particularly so in the case of Guilford."

"Yet, I ought to be one of the last to criticize the members of that great profession in this regard, for on the institution as to Brondberg's sanity after conviction they way they responded, without fear or reward, to the call of humanity, and with one voice pronounced him insane and irresponsible, was one of the finest exhibitions of personal and professional spirit and independence that I have ever known."

"And that suggests some further reflections. You who live in a jurisdiction where wisely, as I think, capital punishment has been abolished, cannot wholly appreciate the effect upon the administration of criminal justice of that wild cry for blood that comes up in a case where some lunatic has under circumstances of inevitable atrocity, taken a valuable human life."

"His own life is so worthless that the sacrifice of ten thousand like him seems no expiation or atonement. It does not, indeed, matter much to such a poor wretch, but it does to the state. No state or union can afford upon such considerations and in violation of its own laws, to take the life of the humblest and meanest of its citizens."

In his concluding remarks Mr. Gregory paid his respects to the present discussion as to the recall of the judiciary in the following manner:

"The president of the United States is perturbed and well he may be at the want of confidence manifested in our courts."

"There is a swelling tide of dissatisfaction with their methods rolling over the country from the far west that threatens the most serious impairment of their usefulness and power, and the possible destruction of that without which a judge is the most contemptible figure in government, judicial independence."

"I believe sincerely in popular government and in the rule of the people. I do not believe in the administration of the law either criminal or civil, by popular vote, the outcry of the multitude. In cases of the character of those to which I have referred, the judgment is usually determined outside of the court room. The ministers of the law are but the agents of the multitude."

"If this is to continue, if order prevails, it is to enter the temple of justice and bow to its precepts, edicts in her law courts, sanctuaries, then what is her law or science or professional skill or learning in any field?"

"It is a singular commentary on the faculty of counting popular favor that at a time when in some quarters judicial servility to the public seems to prevail, there should have arisen such a demand for the judicial recall, by which it is sought absolutely to insure a complaisant and subservient judiciary."

"Now, we propose at the bar to resist this clamor vigorously and boldly. But let the bench do its part."

"If we have a great case where a poor and friendless wretch is prosecuted, in which some judge shall stand like a rock against the wild cry for blood and the clamors of the mob for vengeance; one such conspicuous instance would do almost more to rehabilitate the American bench to the confidence and respect of our people than the utmost efforts of a united bar."

"I have too much faith in popular intelligence, to doubt that courage, integrity and judicial independence, however much the exercise of these qualities may frustrate the passing impulses of the moment, will earn and command the abiding confidence and esteem of our people."

"I suppose it would be conceded in this country, at least, that John Marshall was the greatest and wisest judge that ever lived."

"When he presided at the trial of Aaron Burr, the almost universal sentiment of the country demanded that the defendant be convicted of high treason. After the verdict, which was rendered substantially on a direction against the government, John Marshall and the counsel for the defense were burned in effigy at Gallows hill, near Baltimore. It is said that Jefferson contemplated an effort to procure the impeachment and that William Wirt admitted that he had lost confidence in his integrity."

"Indeed, in the argument, it was intimated by counsel for the government that if the judges sustained the position of the defense they would be subject to impeachment."

"The chief justice was not unimpaired of the situation, and in his opinion he dealt with it in these words: 'No man is desirous of becoming the peculiar subject of calumny. No man, might he let the bitter cup pass from him without self reproach, would drain it to the bottom. But if he have no choice in the case, if there be no alternative presented to him, but a dereliction of duty or the obprobrium of those who are denominated the world, he merits the contempt as well as the indignation of his country, who can hesitate which to embrace.'"

"Noble Words of Marshall."

"There are noble words. They are an inspiration to that lofty conception of judicial duty, lacking which a man cannot be a just or honest judge."

much less a great one. And yet they stand a high standard and one which is difficult of attainment."

"Let us not forget these words the next time some terrible crime has stirred popular feeling to the uttermost and the wild cry for vengeance has gone forth in volume and fury well calculated to intimidate the courts and all the ministers of justice."

"If resisting the natural impulse which animates them as other men, to disregard the law, to trample on the rights of the accused, and to wreak summary vengeance upon him, court and counsel endeavor to give him his rights under the law and to acquit him if the evidence so require, let us not join the senseless throng who cry them down."

"Let us recall the majestic figure of the great chief justice; let us listen again to his impressive language; let us emulate his lofty independence and unwavering integrity."

"Nor can we of the bar place all responsibility on the courts. We must bear our due share."

"The strong and the powerful but little require the protection of the law."

"Let us not reject the claims of the poor, the humble and the friendless, those who the most require our service and are the least able to make return for it."

The Duty of the Lawyer.

"The duty of the lawyer is nowhere more exactly and impressively stated than in the oath required of advocates in the courts of Geneva. I solemnly swear before Almighty God to be faithful to the republic and the nation of Geneva, never to depart from the respect due to the tribunals and authorities; never to counsel or maintain a cause which does not appear to be just or equitable, unless it be the defense of an accused person; never to employ, knowingly, for the purpose of maintaining the cause confided to me any means contrary to truth; and never to seek to mislead the judges by any artifice or false statement of fact or law; to abstain from all offensive personality and to advance no fact contrary to the honor or reputation of the parties, if it be not indispensable to the cause with which I may be charged; not to encourage either the commencement or continuance of a suit from any motive of passion or interest; not to reject for any interest personal to myself, the cause of the weak, the stranger or the oppressed."

"I sometimes think we are not always sufficiently mindful of such sentiments. Yet, as we approximate this standard we shall best maintain the high traditions and lofty aims of a noble, an honorable and a learned profession."

"At the conclusion of Mr. Gregory's address, Mr. W. Jones of Madison, was called on and made a few pleasant words of greeting to the present members of the county bar association, many of whom he knew as students, spoke feelingly of those he had known who have departed to the world beyond and touched upon the question of the recall of the judiciary. He was followed by Judge Grimm, Judge Sale, Judge Field, John L. Sanborn of Madison, and then Senator Whitehead in behalf of the bar thanked the speaker of the evening for his address and moved that Mr. Gregory be made a life member of the association which was done by unanimous vote. Among those who were present were the following:

Barry W. Jones, Madison; Dr. Thomas Frank C. R. Dent of Harbort; J. M. Whitehead, G. G. Sutherland, S. S. Gregory, Judge Grimm, John Cunningham, Judge Sale, E. D. ALTERNATES NAMED BY COMMITTEE AND NOT AT PRIMARIES

Republicans 'Were Informed on Primary Law When Taking Action at Milwaukee Recently.

At the recent Republican conference in Milwaukee when delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention were nominated, it was noticed that alternates were not named.

It is also noticed that in some of the districts alternates as well as delegates have been named on some of the presidential tickets.

On the Democratic side both the Wilson and Champ Clark tickets for delegates-at-large contains also the names of nominees for alternate delegates-at-large.

Alternates Not Voted For.

Why, therefore, it has been asked, should the Democrats nominate candidates for alternates and the Republicans not? The answer is that the Republicans evidently had ascertained that alternate delegates are not elected, but are appointed by the state central committee. The Democrats either overlooked the provision of the law on the subject, or perhaps the nomination for alternate delegates were merely made as suggestions to the state central committee, but which suggestions have no legal force, unless the committee chooses to recognize them.

The law on the subject in which some politicians see opportunities for much mischief reads that: "Section 5 of Article IV, inclusive, of the constitution amended, created or repealed by the laws of 1907 and 1909, it shall be the duty of the state central committee of each political party between the holding of each election and at least fifteen days prior to the holding of the party national convention to meet and elect four national delegates-at-large and two alternate district delegates from each congressional district. Said meeting shall be called by the chairman of the party central committee upon at least ten days' notice."

The provision of the election laws and primary election law of Wisconsin are now so varied and so numerous that party committees will do well to carry in their pockets a digest of the laws. If they wish to be able to answer questions which will be asked, it is probably safe to say that not one person in a thousand knew that alternate delegates to national conventions were not elected, in the same way that delegates are elected and in the way they have hitherto been elected.

Some Curious Possibilities.

Under the law the state central committee would have the power to defeat the will of the people, as expressed in the polls if it wished. Suppose a Taft delegate is elected at large in a district and because of illness or other reason is unable to attend the convention. The Republican state central committee in such case, controlled by the La Follette element, could have a La Follette alternate for him.

So with the Democrats. Their party committee is credited with being a Wilson organization. If a Champ Clark or Harmon delegate was elected and unable to attend the convention the committee might substitute a Wilson alternate, although a Clark or Harmon supporter was elected.

These facts are pointed out not with the idea that state central committees will take such extraordinary action, but to show the character of some of the election laws, designed to secure more representative government, but capable of being used to defeat their very purpose. It is manifest that the law should be so changed as to remove all doubt that a Taft or La Follette or Wilson or Harmon or Clark delegate should each have a corresponding alternate. Otherwise a state or district might be misrepresented in a national convention.

There are two reasons, however, which make it unlikely, even under the present law for the appointment of alternates, that such an outcome as mentioned, although possible, will ever occur.

"First it is not believed that any state central committee would in this way defeat the will of the party electors and, second, no national party convention would ever accept a delegate so chosen, so unrepresentative and so clearly without a shadow of right to a seat in the national convention."

GAVE CHINA SHOWER FOR MISS IVA SETZER

Orfordville Young Ladies Entertained in a Delightful Manner For Bride-to-be.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Orfordville, Feb. 27.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiegman near Janesville, Saturday Feb. 24, Mrs. Wiegman, Miss Lydia Bernstein and Miss Jessie Kelly entertained at an "at home" in the form of a china shower, in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Iva Mae Setzer to Mr. Elmer H. Hartness of Albion. The color scheme was in red, white and blue. The dining room was decorated with hearts and cupid and red roses. A four course luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock. The guests included friends of the bride-elect from Janesville, Orfordville, Brodhead and Evansville.

Many beautiful presents were received, among them were chopsticks, bread and butter plates, cups and saucers, sugar and creamers, salt and pepper, and various other things. Each lady brought a tea-towel, which she hemmed and presented to Miss Setzer.

In one of the games played, cherries were placed on ascherry tree. In another, George's hatchet was presented to Miss Hazel Setzer as a prize for guessing the most kitchen utensils in a contest.

In another a ring, a thimble, a key and a piece of money were hid. The unmarried ladies were told to search for them, that each one found the ring the future; the one who found the key would be married first. The piece of money for old coming riches, the key (travel), while the one who found the thimble would become an old maid.

Each guest was presented with a red rose as a memento of the occasion.

GAS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION AND ALL OTHER STOMACH MISERY GOES

Take a little Diapiesin now and your stomach will feel fine five minutes later.

If your meals don't sit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid; heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sour your entire meal—interfere with digestion and cause so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pope's Diapiesin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single Douch of Fermentation and Sour Stomach, is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you eat your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name, always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pope's Diapiesin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

The PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

By Gaston Leroux

Author of 'THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW RACE' and 'THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK'.
Illustrations by M.G. Kettner
Copyright 1911 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

The wretch, who really was the first ventriloquist in the world, was only trying to divert the child's attention from the torture-chamber; but it was a stupid scheme, for Christine thought of nothing but us! She repeatedly brought him, in the gentlest tones which she could assume:

"Put out the light in the little window! . . . Erik, do put out the light in the little window."

For she saw that this light, which appeared so suddenly and of which the monster had spoken in so threatening a voice, must mean something terrible. One thing must have puzzled her for a moment; and that was seeing the two of us behind the wall, in the midst of that resplendent light, alive and well. But she would certainly have felt much easier if the light had been put out.

Meanwhile, the other had already begun to play the ventriloquist. He said:

"Hooray, I raise my mask a little. . . . Oh, only a little! . . . You see my lips, such lips as I have! They're not moving! . . . My mouth is closed—such mouth as I have—and yet you hear my voice. . . . Where will you have it? In your left ear? In your right ear? In the table? . . . Listen, dear, it's in the little box on the right of the mantelpiece: what does it say? 'Shall I turn the scorpion?' . . . And now, crack! What does it say in the little box on the left? 'Shall I turn the grasshopper?' . . . And now, crack! Here it is in the little leather bag. . . . What does it say? 'I am the little bag of life and death.' . . . And now, crack! It is in Charlotte's throat, in Charlotte's golden throat, in Charlotte's crystal throat, as I live! What does it say? It says, 'It's I, Mr. Toad, it's I singing! I feel without alarm—coack—with its melody around me—coack!' . . . And now, crack! It is on a chair in the ghost's box and it says, 'Madame Charlotte is singing tonight to bring the chandelier down!' . . . And now, crack! Ah! Where is Erik's voice now? Listen, Christine, darling! Listen! It is behind the door of the torture-chamber! Listen! It's myself in the torture-chamber! And what do I say? 'Woe to them that have a nose, a real nose, and come to look round the torture-chamber! Ah, ah, ah!'"

Oh, the ventriloquist's terrible voice! It was everywhere, everywhere. It passed through the little invisible window, through the walls. It ran around us, between us. Erik was there, speaking to us! We made a movement as though to fling ourselves upon him. But, already, swifter, more fleeting than the voice or the echo, Erik's voice had leaped back behind the wall!

Soon we heard nothing more at all, for this is what happened:
"Erik! Erik!" said Christine's voice. "You tire me with your voice. Don't go on, Erik! Isn't it very hot here?"

"Oh, yes," replied Erik's voice, "the heat is unendurable!"

"But what does this mean? . . . The wall is really getting quite hot! . . . The wall is burning!"

"I'll tell you, Christine, dear; it is because of the forest next door."

"Well, what has that to do with it? The forest?"

"Why, didn't you see that it was an African forest?"

falling on the floor and being dragged along and a door slammed and then nothing, nothing more around us save the scorching silence of the south in the heart of a tropical forest.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Barrel! Barrel! Any Barrels to Sell?"

The Persian's Narrative Continued.
I have said that the room in which M. le Vicomte de Chagny and I were imprisoned was a regular hexagon, lined entirely with mirrors. Plenty of these rooms have been seen since, mainly at exhibitions; they are called "palaces of illusion," or some such name. But the invention belongs entirely to Erik, who built the first room of this kind under my eyes, at the time of the rosy hours of Mazendran. A decorative object, such as a column, for instance, was placed in one of the corners and immediately produced a hall of a thousand columns; for, thanks to the mirrors, the real room was multiplied by six hexagonal rooms, each of which, in its turn, was multiplied indefinitely. But the little sunbeam soon tired of this infinite illusion, whereupon Erik altered his invention into a "torture-chamber."

For the architectural motive placed in this corner, he substituted an iron tree. This tree, with its painted leaves, was absolutely true to life and was made of iron so as to resist all the attacks of the "patient" who was locked into the torture-chamber. We shall see how the scene thus obtained was twice altered instantaneously into two successive other scenes, by means of the automatic rotation of the drums or rollers in the corners. These were divided into three sections, fitting into the angles of the mirrors and each supporting a decorative scheme that came into sight as the roller revolved upon its axis.

The walls of this strange room gave the patient nothing to lay hold of, because, apart from the solid decorative object, they were simply furnished with mirrors, thick enough to withstand any onslaught of the victim, who was flung into the chamber unaided and barefoot.

There was no furniture. The ceiling was capable of being lit up. An ingenious system of electric heating, which has since been imitated, allowed the temperature of the walls and room to be increased at will.

I am giving all these details of a perfectly natural invention, producing, with a few painted branches, the supernatural illusion of an equatorial forest blazing under the tropical sun, so that no one may doubt the present balance of my brain or feel entitled to say that I am mad or lying or that I take him for a fool!

I now return to the facts where I left them. When the ceiling lit up and the forest became visible around us, the vicomte's stupefaction was immense. That impenetrable forest, with its innumerable trunks and branches, threw him into a terrible state of consternation. He passed his hands over his forehead, as though to drive away a dream; his eyes blinked; and, for a moment, he forgot to listen.

I have already said that the sight of the forest did not surprise me at all; and therefore I listened for the two of us to what was happening next door. Lastly, my attention was especially attracted, not so much to the scene, as to the mirrors that produced it. These mirrors were broken in parts. Yes, they were marked and scratched; they had been "starred," in spite of their solidity; and this proved to me that the torture-chamber in which we now were had already served a purpose.

Yes, RICHARD MREICH, whose feet were not bare like those of the victims of the rosy hours of Mazendran, had certainly fallen into this "mortal illusion" and, mad with rage, had kicked against those mirrors which, nevertheless, continued to reflect his agony. And the branch of the tree on which he had put an end to his own sufferings was arranged in such a way that, before dying, he had seen, for his last consolation, a thousand men writhing in his company.

Yes, Joseph Buquet had undoubtedly been through all this! Were we to do as he had done? I did not think so, for I knew that we had a few hours before us and that I could employ them to better purpose than Joseph Buquet was able to do. After all, I was thoroughly acquainted with most of Erik's "tricks"; and now or never was the time to turn my knowledge to account.

To begin with, I gave up every idea of returning to the passage that had brought us to that accursed chamber. I did not trouble about the possibility of working the inside stone that closed the passage; and this for the simple reason that to do so was out of the question. We had dropped from too great a height into the torture-chamber; there was no furniture to help us reach that passage; not even the branch of the iron tree, not even each other's shoulders were of any avail.

There was only one possible outlet, that opening into the Louis-Philippe room in which Erik and Christine Daae were. But, though this outlet looked like an ordinary door on Christine's side, it was absolutely invisible to us. We must therefore try to open it without even knowing where it was.

When I was quite sure that there was no hope for us from Christine Daae's side, when I had heard the monster dragging the poor girl from the Louis-Philippe room just as should interfere with our tortures, I resolved to set to work without delay. But I had first to calm M. de Chagny, who was already walking about like a madman, uttering incoherent cries. The snatches of conversation which he had caught between Christine and the monster had contributed not a little to drive him beside himself; add to that the shock of the magic forest and the scorching heat which was beginning to make the perspiration stream down his temples and you will have no difficulty in understanding his state of mind. He shouted Christine's name, brandished his pistol, knocked his forehead against the glass in his endeavors, to run down the glades of the invisible forest. In short, the torture was becoming unbearable.

I Hunted and Hunted.

striving to work its spell upon a brain unprepared for it.

I did my best to induce the poor vicomte to listen to reason. I made him touch the mirrors and the iron tree and the branches and explained to him, by optical laws, all the luminous imagery by which we were surrounded and of which we need not allow ourselves to be the victims, like ordinary, ignorant people.

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema
Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases, but it has been found that these salves only close the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. This—because of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well-known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription. We have sold other remedies for skin

"We'll find a room, a little room; that is what you must keep saying to yourself. And we shall leave the room as soon as we have found the door."

And I promised him that, if he let me act, without disturbing me by shouting and walking up and down, I would discover the trick of the door in less than an hour's time.

Then he lay that on the floor, as one does in a wood, and declared that he would wait until I found the door of the forest, as there was nothing better to do! And he added that, from where he was, "the view was splendid!" The torture was working, in spite of all that I had said.

Myself, forgetting the forest, I tackled a glass panel and began to finger it in every direction, hunting for the weak point on which to press in order to turn the door in accordance with Erik's system of pivots. This weak point might be a mere speck on the glass, no larger than a pin, under which the spring lay hidden, as my hands and hunted. I felt as high as a hundred could reach. Erik was about the same height as myself and I thought that he would not have placed the spring higher than suited his stature.

While groping over the successive panels with the greatest care, I endeavored not to lose a minute, for I was feeling more and more overcome with the heat and we were literally roasting in that blazing forest.

I had been working like this for half an hour and had finished three panels, when, as I luck would have it, I turned round on hearing a muttered exclamation from the vicomte.

"I am stifling," he said. "All those mirrors are sending out an internal heat! Do you think you will find that spring soon? If you are much longer about it, we shall be roasted alive!"

I was not sorry to hear him talk like this. He had not said a word of the forest and I hoped that my companion's reason would hold out some time longer against the torture. But he added:

"What consoles me is that the monster has given Christine until eleven tomorrow evening. If we can't get out of here and go to her assistance, at least we shall be dead before her! Then Erik's mass can serve for all of us!"

And he gulped down a breath of hot air that nearly made him faint.

As I had not the same desperate reasons as I, returned, after giving him a word of encouragement, to my panel, but I had made the mistake of taking a few steps while speaking and, in the tangle of the invisible forest, I was no longer able to find my panel for certain! I had to begin all over again, at random, feeling, stumbling, groping.

Now the fever laid hold of me in my turn. . . . If I found nothing, absolutely nothing. In the next room all was silence. We were quite lost in the forest, without an outlet, a compass, a guide or anything. Oh, I knew what awaited us if nobody came to our aid. . . . If I did not find the spring! But, look as I might, I found nothing but branches, beautiful branches that stood straight up before me, or spread gracefully over my head. But they gave no shade. And this was natural enough, as we were in an equatorial forest, with the sun right above our heads, an African forest.

R. H. M. OF KENTUCKY

TO INVESTIGATE WAR DEPARTMENT

Washington, D.C., Representative Harvey Helm of Kentucky as chairman of the House of Committee now investigating the War Department, has a strenuous summer's work before him. The present aim of the committee is to get at the affairs of the Department from the very bottom. They have already called a number of prominent officials before them. Among others, Charles F. Tait, brother of the President has been called and they are considering the question of a like request of Col. Roosevelt.

Is Happy Now.
"Gee, ain't it a great relief when you've been suffering from toothache to summon up your courage and go to a dentist and have it over with!"

"Clean Up the Bowels and Keep Them Clean"

There are many remedies to be had for constipation, but the difficulty is to procure one that acts without violence. A remedy that does not perform by force, what should be accomplished by persuasion is Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets. After using them, Mr. N. A. Waddell, 215 Washington St., Waco, Tex., says:

"Almost all my life I have been troubled with constipation, and have tried many remedies, all of which seemed to cause pain without giving much relief. I finally tried Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets and found them excellent. Their action is pleasant and mild, and their chocolate taste makes them easy to take. I am more than glad to recommend them."

"Clean up the bowels and keep them clean" is the advice of all physicians, because they realize the danger resulting from habitual constipation. Do not delay too long, but begin proper curative measures.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are a new remedy for this old complaint, and a great improvement over the cathartics you have been using in the past. They taste like candy and work like a charm. A trial will convince you.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory after trial, return the box to your druggist, and he will return your money. A MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it in a few days. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles. Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (40¢ cents) worth in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pinex and sugar syrup on the inflamed membrane is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in pinalene and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of households throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The spirit of hustlo—of do-it-within-this-hour—which makes this city a good place in which to live and prosper, makes the evening newspaper an absolute necessity. The NOW PERSON wants the news of now, and he wants it now, and not after it is "cold" and the thrill of its significance is lost. The Evening newspaper is a NOW-Paper—as to news and as to advertising!
